The Cost of Hiring a Director of Training

Smart Decision Making:

- Building a training function is fundamentally different than leading an existing training function, when the time is right, we'll help you identify the right hire.
- The Training Process Outsourcing option is the best solution to solve your training and development challenges while preparing for the future.
- For less than the cost of a typical Director of Training hire, you can have an entire team of resources focused on executing your most critical development needs.
- Predictable costs with no surprises based on an agreement to execute specific objectives in a designated time frame.
- The ability to scale up and down quickly without having to hire, fire, or furlough staff and needs and demands change.
